Subject: RE: CCA Question

Briefing materials prepared for a briefing you are participating in are not CCA. What people have a hard time remembering is that context matters. They could become CCA if a NO attorney provided them to a field attorney in response to a question about the issue. But providing briefing materials to a field member of a team who is doing the briefing is not CCA. See CCDM Exhibit 33.1.2-1 Q&A 22-25.
